Chas. F. Hanson and wife returned from their bridal tour Saturday, on No. 1. They were duly serenaded by the local string band after their return. We did not hear it, but understand that the music was beautiful and varied; and have no doubt but that everything would have gone off all right if the serenaders had not mistaken the house in which the bridal couple lodged. Being a musician ourselves, we know how difficult it is to get when such a remedy as Coussen's Lightning an E flat cornet without strings to chord with a D- guitar without a spirit valve.

Otto Eckart was snatched bald-headed and brought before 'Squire Dinger Monday last for committing an assault and battery or Minnie Schacht. Otto told the Court he was guilty, and the Court said Mr. Eckart should pay $12.00, which he did, and was discharged. Then Otto swore out a warrant before his late Judge, charging Minnie Schacht with disturbing his peace. The defendant denied this soft impeachment; but on a trial before the 'Squire, who acted as a jury in this case, she was found guilty to the tune of One of the party of hunters who left here on the 1st inst. writes us as follows:

BLACK RIVER CAMP, Mo., Oct. 3, '83. We are having a splendid time, although somewhat delayed in reaching our objective point. We have all the fresh meat we can eat—mostly all squirrels, which are very plenty. While out after turkeys this morning I saw about fifty squirrels in a space of about fifty square. I did not succeed in getting any turkeys. I heard them gobbling, but the hill they were on was so rough I could not get close enough for a shot. We will try them again in the morning.

I am keeping house this afternoon while the other boys are out hunting. They are across the river; and if one may judge from the number of shots he hears, they will bring in about fifty squirrels.

There are not many pigeons here. I saw few passing over, but did not see any feed-

Acorns are very plenty; and judging from the number of hogs that are around the tent and in the woods, I think they will be pretty near all eaten up in a short time. Speaking of hogs, I will say that these are the boldest ones I ever saw; they try to eat the squirrels out of the kettle while it is over the fire!
